

MICD
JUST CITY
MAYORAL
FELLOWSHIP
SPRING 2023 micd.org/JCMF

ABOUT

The MICD Just City Mayoral Fellowship brings together a small group of mayors to directly tackle injustices in each of their cities through planning and design interventions.

The 2023 Fellowship will help mayors develop and strengthen approaches to embedding justice and equity goals within government policy and practices, as well as help mayors design strategies for achieving more just and equitable outcomes within the communities of your city. This year's cohort of mayors will be introduced to the concepts of social impact and justice-centered design, equity framework measurement tools, and innovative design practices that increase just and equitable outcomes. Building from past Fellowships, this year's program will continue to explore ways to create lasting, transformational impacts from new federal funding streams such as the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act and the American Rescue Plan Act.

ELIGIBILITY

Mayors of all U.S. cities (MICD alumni and mayors new to MICD) are invited to express interest in the program.

Mayors may submit an expression of interest form through Monday, December 5 to be considered for this program.
